- 89 acres of open space – one of the largest undeveloped sites remaining along the Sammamish River

- A special place for recreation, education and the protection of native fish and wildlife species including endangered Chinook salmon

We are pursuing grants, along with Forterra, King County, the City of Bothell and the state of Washington, to fund the final land purchase on behalf of the public. The easiest way to help OneBothell is to add your name to our list of supporters. It takes less than 30 seconds, but greatly benefits our cause.

The community has expressed strong support for:

- Restoring the ecology of the Sammamish River
- Establishing Bothell as a regional leader in stewardship of the Sammamish River
- Creating a gathering place for education and recreation
- Connecting the property to regional trails
- Connecting the property to other parks

We also have a coalition of support with other local efforts like Shelton View Stewardship Assoc., Friends of North Creek Forest & Save Westhill Woods – together we are stronger.
